Awareness and Attitude of Public towards Dental Procedures and Safety Protocols in COVID-19 Scenario: A Cross-sectional Study

Prakash Nidawani¹, Girish P Galagali², Vishnupriya B Seethapathy³, Arun K Acharya⁴, Santosh K Bung⁵

ABSTRACT

Aim: To assess the awareness and attitude of public toward dental procedures and safety protocols in COVID-19 scenario in India

Materials and methods: A cross-sectional survey was conducted among people from various regions of India in questionnaire format. It comprised 22-variable, structured, close-ended questions, and the respondents were divided based on their age, sex, educational qualification, and region. Data were analyzed using SPSS software version 20.0.

Results: In total, 1064 people participated from various regions of India. Most of the participants were postgraduates, and male-to-female ratio was almost equal. The major proportion of age group who responded was below 45 years. Almost 88.6% of the participants were aware that dentists are at higher risks and 87.6% of the people expect their dentists to wear personal protective equipment (PPE) during treatment procedures. 81.8% of the people preferred cashless transaction as a modality of payment option in dental office. 66.8% of the people irrespective of their education level opted newspaper and print media as their major source of information for updating themselves and 83.3% of the participants opted online or telephonic appointment prior to visiting their dentists.

Conclusion: We dentists being the healthcare professionals are at higher risks to various infectious diseases. So we should not panic and should continue our services toward the public health. We should also ensure that our practice is up-to-date to manage this pandemic crisis.

Clinical significance: To give an insight into dental practitioners about prevailing awareness and understanding of public and their response in accepting dental care in this COVID pandemic scenario.

Abstract:

AIM : To compare and evaluate the effect of sterilization on cyclic fatigue resistance of TruNatomy and One G glide path files.

MATERIALS AND METHODS: A samples of 20 TruNatomy files and 20 One G Ni -Ti glide path files were taken and then 10 from each group were subjected to glass bead sterilization. All the 40 files were fatigue tested by a custom made cyclic fatigue testing device until fracture. Time to fracture and the number of cycles to failure of each instrument were recorded and statistically analyzed by ANOVA and Post hoc test.

RESULTS: The cyclic fatigue resistance of sterilized TruNatomy was found statistically high compared to non-sterilized TruNatomy, non-sterilized One G files and sterilized One G files.
